Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 19 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Some showers in the north, otherwise dry.

Today:
A dry day for most but a few showers are possible, mainly over Cumbria. Though often cloudy, some sunny spells will break through, more so during the afternoon. Feeling warm with only light winds. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Northern showers easing through the evening as cloud moves in for all. Showers may affect coastal areas overnight and patchy rain moves into southern parts during the early hours. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Sunday:
Rain easing early on Sunday morning, though some drizzle persisting a little longer over the southern Pennines. A dry day follows with sunny spells mostly confined to Cumbria and Lancashire. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Clouding over on Monday after some early sunny spells, but mostly dry. Sunny spells on Tuesday, with a few showers possible in western areas. Dry with sunny spells on Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.